

The CGMS credential confers formal recognition of professional competency in all areas of full lifecycle grants management. This credential is for anyone who works in the field of grants management.

Maintaining the credential demonstrates your dedication to the highest standards of competency as a grants management professional. Earning the CGMS credential enhances your professional reputation and represents your strong commitment to ongoing professional development.

Get up to speed on all phases of the grants lifecycle with soup-to-nuts training on the Grants Management Body of Knowledge (GMBok).

Planning to sit for the CGMS credentialing exam? Prepare better and get smarter by brushing up on the GMBok with the help of our expert trainers.

This in-depth training covers the five knowledge domains that comprise the GMBok: General Knowledge, Pre-Award Activities, Award Activities, Post-Award Activities, and Closeout/Audit.

Are you a grants management professional? JOIN NGMA TODAY!

Since 1978, NGMA has been helping its members achieve success in the grants management industry through the advocacy of best practices and the promotion of professional excellence. NGMA offers a professional certification in grants management through its CGMS program. In addition, NGMA provides CPE opportunities programmed into a variety of trainings including an annual grants training, monthly grants trainings, chapter trainings, live webinars, and comprehensive full lifecycle GMBok trainings. With membership spanning federal, state, local and tribal governments, nonprofit organizations, higher education institutions, and private sector companies, NGMA offers a strong network and forum for cultivating meaningful relationships with other grants industry leaders.
